DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

- 1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-3, 16, 17, 21, and 40-43, drawn to proteins, classified in class 530, subclass 350.
  - II. Claims 4-14, 16-20, 22-23, 27-31, 34-39 and 44-47, drawn to polynucleotides, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.
  - III. Claim 15-17, 22, 24-29, 32-34 drawn to an antibody, classified in class 424, subclass 130.1.
- 2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

  The purified polynucleotide of invention II is related to the polypeptide of invention I by virtue of encoding the same. The DNA molecule has utility for recombinant production of the protein in a host cell, however the DNA molecule and the protein it encodes are distinct inventions since they are physically and functionally distinct chemical entities, and the protein product can be made by another materially different process, such as by synthetic peptide synthesis or purification from natural sources. The DNA may be used for processes other than the production of the protein, such as nucleic acid hybridization assay. Furthermore, the nucleic acid and methods of group II are distinct from the products of Invention III wherein the two groups of products are physically and functionally distinct chemical entities, and the methods of Invention II can neither utilize the products of Invention III nor can be used to make such products.

Application/Control Number: 09/050,991

Art Unit: 1635

The polypeptide of Invention I is related to the antibody of Invention III by virtue of being the cognate antigen, necessary for the production of the antibodies. Although the protein and antibody are related for this fact, they are distinct inventions because they are physically and functionally distinct chemical entities, and because the protein can be used in another materially different process from the use for production of the antibody, such as in a pharmaceutical composition in its own right, and in a variety of other methods including detection of other molecules that bind to the protein other than antibodies.

- 3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
- 4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
- 5. A telephone call was made to Stephen B. Maebius on 9/10/99 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
